Manifestantes arrested en protestas por el conflicto de Gaza en los Países Bajos

Treinta y dos personas fueron arrestadas cuando la policía neerlandesa disolvió una protesta por la guerra de Gaza en la Universidad de Amsterdam, en el segundo día de disturbios por el conflicto. La policía dijo que los delitos incluyeron violencia pública, vandalismo y agresión.

El video capturado por Reuters pareció mostrar a los oficiales en equipo antidisturbios golpeando a los manifestantes y a la policía derribando barricadas improvisadas de escritorios, ladrillos y paletas de madera que aparentemente se habían utilizado para activar extintores de incendios en un intento de empujarlos. La filmación también pareció mostrar a la policía arrastrando a varios estudiantes mientras cientos gritaban: "¡Vergüenza!"

bet 77 aposta

El primer ministro holandés, Mark Rutte, dijo que los eventos en la universidad habían cruzado una línea. "Se permiten las manifestaciones. Siempre. Pero usar la violencia contra la policía y causar destrucción nunca está permitido. ¡Dejen de hacerlo!" escribió en redes sociales.

Rutte también afirmó que "cada vez con más frecuencia, y con palabras cada vez más duras, la violencia en Gaza se culpa a los neerlandeses judíos", describiéndolo como injustificado y una "forma de antisemitismo que debemos continuar luchando enérgica y claramente".

Protestas en otras universidades

Alrededor de 30 millas al sur, en la Universidad de Utrecht, los estudiantes ocuparon un edificio en protesta, mientras que en Bélgica, docenas de estudiantes han continuado ocupando la Universidad de Gante en una protesta de tres días que ha fusionado demandas sobre Gaza y la crisis climática.

Las tensiones sobre Gaza también se extendieron al Festival de la Canción de Eurovisión en Malmö, donde la activista climática Greta Thunberg se unió a miles de manifestantes pro palestinos para protestar contra la participación de Israel en la competencia.

"Los jóvenes están mostrando el camino y mostrando cómo debemos reaccionar a esto", dijo Thunberg, de 21 años, envuelta en un keffiyeh, el tradicional pañuelo que se ha convertido en un símbolo de la resistencia palestina.

La protesta se produjo cuando la concursante israelí, Eden Golan, de 20 años, se preparaba para actuar con su canción Hurricane en la segunda semifinal del jueves.

En España, las manifestaciones y los campamentos continuaron en varios campus del país. En la Universidad de Valencia, donde se establecieron casi dos semanas atrás, alrededor de 50 personas exigen que España rompa relaciones con Israel.
